Good Shepherd Community Care Announces the Appointment of New Board Member

Newton, MA (March 7, 2023) Good Shepherd Community Care is pleased to announce the appointment of Susan Nemetz, CEO and Founder of The NemetzGroup LLC and Corval LLC, to its Board of Directors.

“Our Board of Directors exemplify and advance Good Shepherd’s commitment to the highest quality of compassionate care, support and education for those experiencing or anticipating serious illness and loss,” said Tim Boon, President and CEO of Good Shepherd Community Care. “Susan came highly recommended to the Board for her strategic acumen, novel professional contributions and great empathy. Her expertise and vitality will be a great asset to the organization’s recent and continued growth.”

Susan Nemetz founded The NemetzGroup, a life sciences commercial and strategy advisory firm, in 2003. The NemetzGroup has been instrumental in guiding the evolution of over 100 biopharma companies from start-up to publicly traded and invaluable to the development of numerous assets from targets to lifesaving approved medicines. Susan founded her second company, Corval LLC, in 2018. This disruptive technology platform company supports early- mid-stage biopharma companies navigate the complex commercialization planning process by building a validated map, headcount, and budget plan, which empowers them to get their treatments to patients in need. Susan also serves as an advisor of Life Science Cares, a collective effort of life science companies to eliminate the impacts of poverty on Boston neighborhoods.

Board Clerk, Eliot Putnam, who has served on the Good Shepherd Board of Directors since 1997, shares that Susan “Will bring to our midst relevant professional credentials and a high level of commitment to areas of health care that concern us. Of equal importance, she will bring a very personal understanding of the support and comfort that hospice care can bring to individuals and families caring for loved ones in their final days, and of the importance of maintaining the highest standards in such care.”

About Good Shepherd Community Care

One of the most trusted not-for-profit health care organizations in Greater Boston, Good Shepherd has played a leadership role in its field throughout history in the development of hospice care and later in its expansion to include a broader range of palliative care and grief and bereavement services. It has and continues to develop specialties in serving pediatric patients, diverse multicultural populations, and broadened its community education efforts through the work of Good Shepherd Institute. Recently named a “Top Place to Work in Massachusetts” by The Boston Globe, Good Shepherd continues to lead in the fields of hospice and palliative care, consistently exceeding national and competitors’ average scores in Hospice Compare and receiving awards for the leadership and innovation of its pioneering multicultural hospice programs.
